NELSON MANDELA

Anti-apartheid hero dies at 95. Loss of South Africa's 'greatest son' felt worldwide

Nelson Mandela was a master of forgiveness. South Africa's first black president spent nearly a third of his life as a prisoner of apartheid, the system of racist white rule, yet he sought to win over its defeated guardians in a relatively peaceful transition of power that inspired the world.

As head of state, the ex-boxer, lawyer and inmate lunched with the prosecutor who argued successfully for his incarceration, sang the apartheid-era Afrikaans anthem at his inauguration and travelled hundreds of miles to have tea with the widow of Hendrik Verwoerd, who was prime minister at the time he was sent to prison and the architect of white rule.

It was this generosity of spirit that made Mandela, who died on Thursday at the age of 95, a global symbol of sacrifice and reconciliation.

Dressed in black, South African President Jacob Zuma announced that Mandela died "peacefully" while with his family at around 8:50 p.m. local time on Thursday.

"We've lost our greatest son. Our nation has lost its greatest son. Our people have lost a father," Zuma said. "Although we knew that this day would come, nothing can diminish our sense of a profound and enduring loss."

South Africans are reacting to the death of Mandela, considered by many to be the father of the nation, with deep sadness. One Johannesburg resident, 31-year-old Hamsa Moosa, said he "wouldn't be free" if not for the man affectionately known by his clan name "Madiba."

In Canada Mandela is being remembered for his wisdom and devotion to fighting injustice.

"The world has lost one of its great moral leaders and statesmen," Prime Minister Stephen Harper said Thursday, describing the honorary Canadian citizen's forbearance as "legendary." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS, WITH FILES FROM THE CANADIAN PRESS

PotashCorp cuts irk Wall

Reaction. Premier accuses company of sacrificing workers to protect shareholders

Premier Brad Wall addresses the media Thursday. He's written a letter to PotashCorp chairman Dallas Howe, decrying the company's decision to preserve dividend for shareholders while also laying off more than 1,000 workers.
SARAH TAGUIAM/METRO

Premier Brad Wall has sent a letter to Potash Corp. of Saskatchewan executives blasting them for cutting jobs while preserving the dividend paid to shareholders.

The company said Tuesday that it is laying off 1,045 people to reduce its workforce by about 18 per cent, with the biggest hits in its home province of Saskatchewan.

Wall is upset because PotashCorp CEO Bill Doyle said the fertilizer company's dividend is "sacrosanct" and won't be touched.

"This can only mean that the interests of shareholders were protected while the interests of employees here in Saskatchewan and elsewhere were sacrificed," Wall wrote in the letter dated Dec. 4.

About 440 people will lose their jobs in Saskatchewan. Most of those positions are at PotashCorp's Lanigan division, where one of two mills is to suspend production by the end of the year, and at its Cory division, where production will be reduced. Cuts will also be made at the Saskatoon headquarters.

About 130 people in New Brunswick also will be out of a job. The rest of the cuts are to occur outside Canada, including more than 435 in the United States.

But in a three-page letter to Wall dated Thursday, PotashCorp chairman Dallas Howe says the amount of the dividend would not change the number of job cuts.

"If we reduced our dividend to zero, we still need to right-size our operations in order to protect the long-term sustainability of our company — and all of the remaining jobs," he wrote.

PotashCorp says the decision stems from soft demand for potash and phosphates, two major types of crop fertilizer.

Wall said tough times shouldn't be shouldered by workers alone.

"For the company to make that announcement that they made and then for Mr. Doyle to indicate that the dividend policy is unchanged and 'sacrosanct,' that causes me great concern," the premier said Thursday.

In the letter to Howe, Wall asks the company to revisit its dividend policy and Tuesday's decision "with a view to considering whether the number of layoffs could be mitigated."

"Mr. Doyle has his shareholders. I have mine and they're the people of the province, who ... own the potash in the first place."

Howe wrote that the board of the corporation "wholeheartedly" agrees that everyone should share in the bad times as well as the good, and said shareholders have shared the burden in the 35 per cent drop in share values in recent weeks.

"I want to be clear that the dividend is not sacrosanct.... If the board felt that the dividend should be adjusted downward or eliminated, it would do so. However, even the total elimination of the dividend would have no influence on how many employees it takes to efficiently run our operation."

Wrap-up

Legislature closes fall session

The fall sitting of the Saskatchewan legislature has wrapped up after the introduction of 34 pieces of legislation and much debate about health care and schools.

There was traffic-safety legislation, which includes tougher penalties for impaired driving, and changes to the essential-services labour law.

The government also announced plans during the fall sitting to build nine new joint-use schools through public-private partnerships.

But Premier Brad Wall jokes that people will probably remember the fall more for the Roughriders' Grey Cup victory than what happened in the legislature.

Opposition NDP Leader Cam Broten says his focus in the fall sitting was to talk about overcrowding in hospitals, crumbling schools and seniors who are struggling in care.

The legislative session will resume March 3, with the new provincial budget to be delivered later that month.

Pasqua Hospital

ER staying open overnights

The local health region says it has arranged to keep Regina's Pasqua Hospital emergency department open overnights until the end of December.

A spokesman for the Regina Qu'Appelle Health Region says doctors are working additional shifts and other physicians will stand in temporarily to keep the department staffed.

The region said in November that the Pasqua ER would have to close overnights for at least three months because of a doctor shortage. That was averted at the last minute when ER doctors agreed to temporarily work extra shifts.

Saskatchewan residents reflect on legacy of Nelson Mandela

As people around the world mourn the loss of Nelson Mandela, Metro hit the streets of the province's largest urban centres to find out how residents feel the anti-apartheid icon, Nobel Peace Prize recipient and former president of South Africa will be remembered.

SARAH TAGUIAM AND MORGAN MODJESKI/METRO

Talia Clark, 32, painter, Saskatoon

"I really hope he's going to be remembered as an inspiration to all people. He was a completely warm caring heart. He judged everyone equally with an open mind and heart and believed in the goodness of all."

Mike Partridge, 60, retired, Regina

"He did a lot of good things for his own people, I really admire him for that. He fought a lot of things for a lot of people and for the poor. He really brought up equality and I hope that after his death, all the racism continues to stop."

Tressa Dent, 18, page, Saskatoon

"I think he was a strong supporter of the peaceful resolution of matters and I think he was inspiring to people all over the world … and I hope people will continue to remember that."

Lidia Costa-Muresan, 32, university employee, Regina

"He was a champion and a fighter. It's a great loss for freedom and humanity. He really raised the bar for the leaders of tomorrow. His death might derail some of the peace in South Africa but we're definitely going to look at what's in their future."

Sayge Helgason, 17, student, Saskatoon

"Nelson Mandela was an incredible man who will leave a legacy that will be known worldwide forever. He worked hard, he never quit and he was just an incredible man, it's very sad to see him pass."

Kyle Cwynar, 23, assembler, Regina

"He was a good leader for the black people … I think his work with equality will continue like with Martin Luther King he's a good leader for black people and he stood his ground. "

Privacy commissioner says changes are needed

Saskatchewan's privacy commissioner says the Ministry of Highways needs to take responsibility after a worker snooped on a driver.

Commissioner Gary Dickson was called after a traffic officer with the transport compliance branch had "an incident" with another driver while the highway employee was heading to work in his own vehicle in 2010.

The encounter was not work-related, although there are no details about what happened.

Dickson says in a report issued Thursday that, afterwards, the traffic officer "apparently wanted to know why the driver was upset," so he looked up the motorist's personal information on the Saskatchewan Government Insurance database. The highway worker then contacted the driver.

"Clearly, such a purpose is not related to an existing or proposed program or activity of (the ministry)," wrote Dickson.

The driver complained to SGI and the RCMP.

Traffic officers with the transport compliance branch are only authorized to use the SGI database to carry out their duties related to commercial vehicle enforcement. The commissioner says that's why there was a breach of privacy.

SGI apologized to the driver, but Dickson said it should have been the Highways Department that took responsibility for the privacy breach.

Dickson acknowledged that officials took some steps, which included restricting the worker's access to the database. But he added that the ministry needs to do more to stop the same thing from happening again. He said there's no monitoring or auditing of how the database is used by personnel.

An ‘outright lie’: Ford denies he offered $5K and a car for video

Wiretap revelations.
Deputy Mayor Norm Kelly calls new allegations ‘troubling’

Toronto Mayor Rob Ford uses a security guard as a shield amid a throng of media at Toronto City Hall on Thursday. CHRIS YOUNG/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Allegations that Rob Ford offered purported gang members money and a car in exchange for a video are an “outright lie,” the Toronto mayor said Thursday amid new questions about why police did not arrest him.

Speaking on an American radio station, the scandal-plagued mayor quickly tried to change the topic when asked about the latest claims against him.

“You can talk to my lawyers about it,” Ford told The Sports Junkies, a morning show based in Washington, D.C.

“I’m here to talk football, guys. So if you want to talk football, talk football; but if you want to talk about other things, then unfortunately I’m going to have to let you go.”

The latest allegations, which have not been proven in court, are contained in wiretap summaries put together as part of a guns and gangs investigation that were in a police document released Wednesday.

The intercepts reveal men talking with familiarity about the mayor, and suggest they had supplied him with drugs and plotted to blackmail him with photographs of him doing narcotics, police said.

Ford said nothing on arrival at city hall Thursday but Deputy Mayor Norm Kelly, who has taken on many of the mayor’s responsibilities, said the latest allegations would not affect city business. Kelly did call allegations that Ford was consorting with drug traffickers and gang members troubling.

Councillors want answers

Why wasn’t he arrested?

Deputy Mayor Norm Kelly has called allegations that Ford was consorting with drug traffickers and gang members troubling.

Some city councillors called on investigators to explain why they did not arrest the mayor, but police have consistently said they didn’t have sufficient evidence to do so and Ford’s status as mayor had nothing to do with it.

Investigators have asked to interview Ford, but he has refused on the advice of his lawyer, Dennis Morris, who called the latest allegations baseless.

Woman live-tweets her husband’s fatal crash

A Washington state woman who regularly monitors police-scanner traffic unknowingly live-tweeted about her husband’s death in a freeway crash.

In a series of gut-wrenching tweets on Wednesday, the Vancouver, Wash., mother first tweeted how horrible it was when she learned someone had died on Interstate 205 near the Oregon border.

Caran Johnson then told her Twitter followers that she was trying not to panic because her husband, who drives the freeway, wasn’t picking up his phone and was late getting home.

“i’m a basketcase,” she tweeted.

As the events unfolded, she messaged Washington State Patrol spokesman Will Finn directly, asking whether he had descriptions of the vehicles involved in the collision. Finn said he didn’t, but it struck him as odd so he began looking into the crash.

“I contacted the investigator and we put two and two together. I realized I had a situation on my hands,” Finn said Thursday.

Troopers later went to Johnson’s home to tell her that her husband, 47-year-old Craig Johnson, had died in the collision. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fraud. U.S. claims Russian diplomats lied about income for health benefits

Dozens of current or former Russian diplomats and their spouses enjoyed luxury vacations and spent tens of thousands of dollars on concert tickets, fine clothing and helicopter rides as they lied about their incomes to get the U.S. government to pay their health-care bills with money meant for the poor, U.S. federal prosecutors said Thursday.

The diplomats were among 49 individuals charged in a complaint unsealed in federal court in Manhattan, though no arrests were made and only 11 of the diplomats and their spouses remained in the United States. The complaint said Medicaid, a health care program for the poor, lost about $1.5 million in the scheme since 2004.

The defendants include employees of Russia's consulate and its mission to the UN, as well as trade representative, according to the criminal complaint.

Harsh words

"Diplomacy should be about extending hands, not picking pockets in the host country."

U.S. Attorney Preet Bharara

The complaint alleges that the defendants submitted fraudulent applications for medical benefits for pregnancies, births and care for young children. Federal prosecutors said the diplomats qualified for Medicaid benefits by underreporting their income, often by tens of thousands of dollars.

The complaint said that meanwhile the diplomats and their spouses spent tens of thousands of dollars on vacations, fancy watches, expensive jewelry and designer clothing at luxury retail stores including Bloomingdale's, Tiffany & Co., Jimmy Choo, Swarovski and others.

Vatican City. Ex-Legion of Christ priest marrying the mother of his child

Thomas Williams, formerly the public face of the disgraced Legion of Christ religious order who left the priesthood after admitting he fathered a child, is getting married this weekend to the child's mother, The Associated Press has learned.

The bride is the daughter of former U.S. Ambassador to the Holy See, Mary Ann Glendon, one of Pope Francis' top advisers. Her daughter, Elizabeth Lev, is a Rome-based art historian and columnist for the Legion-run Zenit news agency, which Williams published for over a decade while he was in the order.

Williams admitted last year that he had fathered a child several years earlier. At the time Williams was the most publicly prominent priest in the 950-strong order. He is the author of books such as 2008's Knowing Right From Wrong: A Christian Guide to Conscience, and was a commentator for the U.S. broadcaster CBS.

Williams apologized for "this grave transgression" against his vows of celibacy and said he had stayed on as a priest because he hoped to move beyond "this sin in my past" to do good work for the church.

Williams left the priesthood in May to care for his son. He and Lev are due to marry on Saturday in the United States.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

More to the story?

The wedding closes a circle of sorts, even as it raises some uncomfortable questions:

- Was Williams already in a relationship with Lev when she became a regular contributor to the magazine he published?
- Did family ties to Williams influence Glendon in her defence of the Legion and its disgraced founder despite credible reports that the founder was a pedophile?

Murder trial in Kenya

Ambassador's bag was used for drug running: Witness

Testifying Wednesday in the trial of a former diplomat charged in the killing of the acting Venezuelan ambassador, a driver at the embassy in Nairobi said the embassy's diplomatic bag was used to traffic drugs.

The embassy's former first secretary, Dwight Sagaray, is charged with murder in the killing of acting Ambassador Olga Fonseca. She was found strangled in the embassy's official residence on July 27, 2012, only 12 days after reporting to Kenya.

Prosecutors have also charged Sagaray's friend and an alleged co-conspirator. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Boss. Born to Run original lyric sheet sells at Sotheby's for $197,000

A handwritten, working lyric sheet for Bruce Springsteen's 1975 hit Born to Run sold for $197,000 US on Thursday at Sotheby's.

The document used to be in the collection of Springsteen's former manager, Mike Appel, according to Sotheby's. It did not reveal the identity of either the seller or the buyer, a person bidding by telephone.

Most of the lines in this rough 1974 version, written in Long Branch, N.J., are apparently unpublished and unrecorded, but the manuscript does include "a nearly perfected chorus," the auction house said.

The title track of Springsteen's 1975 album has revved up generations of fans — some of whom still refer to themselves as "tramps," as in the song.

A page from the handwritten manuscript of Bruce Springsteen's 1975 hit Born to Run.

SOTHEBY'S/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Springsteen is known to scrawl his songwriting stream-of-consciousness-style in notebooks. There are also some notes in the margins — "wild" and "angels" and a word that looks like "velocity," with the letter T in Springsteen's curlicue cursive.

"Although Springsteen is known to have an intensive drafting process, few manuscripts of Born to Run are available, with the present example being one of only two identified that include the most famous lines in the song," Sotheby's said.

The Born to Run manuscript was included in a sale of fine books and manuscripts. It had a presale estimate of $70,000 to $100,000.

Brother of dead soldier speaks out

A matter of life and death. Help with post-traumatic stress desperately needed for those in the military, Kevin McNeil says

The younger brother of a soldier whose death has raised questions about the Canadian military's treatment of those with post-traumatic stress disorder says members of the military need to know help is available if they are suffering.

Speaking before Warrant Officer Michael McNeil's funeral Thursday, Kevin McNeil said PTSD is a problem that is not going to stop, but the risks can be minimized.

"The most we can do is maybe slow it down," McNeil said outside the armoury in Truro, N.S.

"As much money as government is going to pour into this, it's not going to stop. What we can do is make more people aware, talk to these soldiers, let them know their jobs aren't in jeopardy and we're here for them."

McNeil's death at Canadian Forces Base Petawawa, northwest of Ottawa, is among four recent suicides in the military.

The Armed Forces acknowledges it will be dealing with an increased number of PTSD cases in the next decade as the stress of combat takes hold in those who have returned from the fighting in Afghanistan.

McNeil, 39, was a member 3rd Battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment.

McNeil said he wants his brother remembered as a family man first and secondly as a hero to his country.

McNeil's coffin was carried into the armoury by an honour guard made up of McNeil's comrades in the Royal Canadian Regiment, assisted by his brother Kevin and cousin Tim McNeil.

Quoted

"He gave everything to his country. He was a strong man and will be missed forever."

Kevin McNeil, brother of Warrant Officer Michael McNeil

During the funeral service, Lt. Kendra Mellish, the widow of Warrant Officer Frank Mellish, a soldier killed in Afghanistan in September 2006, gave a reflection on her friend.

She said after her husband died, McNeil helped care for her children and would meet her when he came back from tours.

"Only seven short years ago, he was in this same position, paying homage to his friend (Frank)," she said.

She offered comfort to McNeil's two daughters, one son and one stepson.

"Be proud of the hero he was," she said.

Ottawa nurse Janique Gagnon helps vaccinate a child in the Central African Republic. CONTRIBUTED

Great suffering, enormous need

Médecins Sans Frontières. Conflict in the Central African Republic as awful as high-profile crises, says Canadian nurse

Janique Gagnon, centre, with a group of women in the Central African Republic, at an outreach vaccination day. CONTRIBUTED

DENIS ARMSTRONG
For Metro in Ottawa

Janique Gagnon returned from the Central African Republic on Oct. 8 "with a heavy heart."

The Ottawa children's hospital nurse had just spent the last six months on her first mission with Médecins Sans Frontières — Doctors Without Borders — in one of the most dangerous places on earth, and though she's glad to be home with her husband and two young sons, she wants to return to the war-torn nation as soon as possible.

"I knew there was a risk, so I made it a family decision," Gagnon says. "If my husband or boys don't want me to go, I won't. But they gave me their permission."

They gave their permission because, despite the obvious risks, Gagnon's family understood that front-line emergency work was in her blood.

Before nursing, Gagnon spent 10 years in the Canadian military, deployed in Italy as well as Bosnia-Herzegovina, where she treated casualties from Sarajevo while under fire. Gagnon retired from the military in 2001.

By then, she was looking for an opportunity to volunteer with MSF. The organization offered her the opportunity to run a 95-bed hospital in Boguila, Central African Republic — a jungle village 400 kilometres from the capital, Bangui. This was in April, only two weeks after a coup d'etat reduced the tribal country to civil war.

Without blinking an eye, Gagnon accepted on the spot — nevermind that Seleka rebels and government forces fought viciously in the jungle near the hospital compound.

John Ging, the UN's director of humanitarian operations, has described the country as "a tinderbox that can ignite into something very, very big and very, very bad. Half the country's population of 4.6 million need humanitarian aid. The scale of suffering is among the worst in the world, and it's getting worse."

"I knew the conditions were bad, but that is why I wanted to be there, where the need is the greatest," said Gagnon. "Which is why I joined MSF, because they go to those places where people need medical care the most, and that's usually a dangerous place."

Gagnon had arrived at the beginning of the rainy season when malaria was rampant. She treated the diseased, the dismembered and the dying, witnessing more human degradation than any person should ever see.

Thanks in part to her front-line military experience, she pushed through and focused on the job. She recalls the day she stood up to a Seleka colonel, ordering him to remove his gun prior to entering the hospital.

She remembers the day she cried for the baby that died in her arms.

"Conditions were hard, but the people were so grateful we were there, they didn't want us to leave," she recalls. "I have a huge amount of respect for the people who live there. They have nothing. They can't even take care of themselves because there's nothing."

Gagnon says what they need most are schools. "Education leads to change. It's a long process, but it has to begin now."

Bollywood star faces new homicide charge

Indian movie star Salman Khan will face a fresh trial on a homicide charge for a fatal road accident more than 11 years ago.

Police said that Khan drove his car into a group of people sleeping on a Mumbai sidewalk in September 2002, killing one and injuring four.

The actor was on trial for a lesser offence of causing death by negligence, which carries a maximum penalty of two years in prison.

However, after a magistrate in Mumbai heard the evidence, he invoked the more serious charge of culpable homicide not amounting to murder against the actor in February.

Khan could face up to 10 years in prison if convicted of culpable homicide.

He also faces charges of negligent driving and causing grievous hurt to the victims.

Khan has pleaded not guilty to the charges and sought a fresh trial, which Judge D. W. Deshpande granted Thursday. The judge said that all the witnesses would be re-examined.

The pretrial is set for Dec. 23.

Crime and punishment

Salman Khan was initially charged with negligence causing death after he allegedly drove a car into a group of sleeping people on a Mumbai sidewalk in 2002.

- If convicted, he could face up to 10 years in prison.
- Indian courts are notorious for delays and a trial can take years to complete.

"These are far more serious charges, so there should be a fair opportunity (for Khan) to defend himself," his lawyer, Shrikant Shivade, said.

Khan, one of Bollywood's most popular stars, has acted in about 90 Hindi-language films in his 25-year career.

Deadly storm pounds Europe

Damaging winds. Gusts up to 229 km/h slammed Scotland and paralyzed train service

Hurricane-force gusts hit Britain on Thursday as part of a powerful storm moving across Europe, disrupting air travel, halting trains and leaving tens of thousands of homes without electricity. Accidents linked to the storm killed three people.

Authorities evacuated some 10,000 homes along the eastern English coast after warning that the country could face its worst tidal surge in 60 years. The Thames Barrier — a series of huge metal plates that can be raised across the entire river — was being closed late Thursday to protect London from the surge.

Tidal floods — caused as the storm drives huge amounts of seawater toward the land — were expected in Britain, Germany and Scandinavia, together with freezing high winds from Greenland.

The storm plowed into Scotland overnight, slamming the highlands with gusts up to 229 kilometres per hour. Trains were suspended for much of the day, but began to run fitfully later as some routes were cleared of debris.

Rescue teams ferried residents to safety by boat in north Wales, while officials in other areas handed out sandbags and set up emergency shelters.

Transportation troubles were reported throughout northwestern Europe.

Use bitcoins at your own risk, warns China's central bank

'Virtual goods.'
Country bars banks from handling the cyber currency

Bitcoins suffered a new setback after China's central bank said Thursday its banks and payment systems are barred from handling the virtual currency.

The central bank said bitcoins did not qualify as a currency but private individuals still are allowed to trade them at their own risk.

Bitcoins are created, distributed, and authenticated independently of any bank or government. Their relative anonymity holds out the promise of being able to spend money across the Internet without scrutiny.

"Bitcoins are virtual goods that have no legal status or monetary equivalent and should not be used as currency," said a Chinese central bank statement.

It said financial institutions and payment systems were not allowed to use bitcoin prices for products and could not sell, trade or store bitcoins.

"Ordinary people are free to participate in transactions at their own risk," the central bank said.

Despite wild swings in value, the virtual currency has been moving toward broader acceptance. A growing number of companies accept bitcoins, which can be converted into cash.

Other governments are wary of the cybercurrency. In July, Thailand's central bank banned trading and use of bitcoins.

Fast food workers not lovin' their McSalaries

Fast food workers rally for better wages outside a McDonald's restaurant in Chicago, Thursday. Demonstrations planned in 100 U.S. cities are part of a push by labour unions, worker advocacy groups and Democrats to raise the federal minimum wage of $7.25 US. Protesters are calling for pay of $15 US an hour, but the figure is seen more as a rallying point. The push for higher pay faces an uphill battle. The industry competes aggressively on value offerings and companies have warned they would need to raise prices if wages were hiked. Most fast food locations are owned and operated by franchisees, which lets companies such as McDonald's Corp. and Burger King Worldwide Inc. say they don't control worker pay. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Freedom fighter, world icon

Analysis. Why Nelson Mandela was important to South Africa and the world

ELISABETH BRAW
Metro World News

Nelson Mandela's cell of five square metres in Robben Island, where he spent 18 of his 27 years in prison, is now a virtual shrine for tourists and political figures alike. But Mandela was much more than a long-suffering prisoner. He was a world leader and a 20th century icon.

"His building a future for South Africa was a huge achievement," says Stephen Chan, professor of international relations at the School of Oriental and African Studies in London and author of numerous books on southern Africa.

"He helped draft what may be the world's best constitution. He was instrumental in establishing the Truth and Reconciliation Commission, which was crucial in helping the country deal with its apartheid past. He was also a highly moral politician, setting the tone for the whole continent by stepping down after one term."

Lilias van Wyk, a white South African who lived through apartheid, is full of admiration for Mandela.

"There's nobody like him here in South Africa. (Our former president and Mandela's deputy president Thabo Mbeki) was a gentleman, but our current president is more interested in ladies than anything else," she tells Metro.

Indeed, Mandela succeeded where so many other freedom-fighters-turned-leaders have failed: as a democratic politician and later president, the former communist united his country.

Despite the black majority's pent-up anger over decades of discrimination, no civil war erupted. The transition to democracy under Mandela's leadership proceeded in a remarkably peaceful and orderly fashion. In his presidential inauguration speech, Mandela urged South Africans to practise forgiveness, saying in Afrikaans, "Wat is verby verby," which translates to "What is past is past." And, through the power of his moral leadership, Mandela brought South Africa back into the international fold.

Quote

"We all think he was a fantastic man. It's amazing what he accomplished without any violence or shooting. And his dignity! I say, 'Thank you, Lord, that we've had him.'"

Lilias van Wyk, a white South African who lived through apartheid

But, Africa watchers note, Mandela was no angel, inherently speaking.

"He became a saint because we made him one," says Chan. "We made him one to justify not putting enough pressure on the apartheid government to release him."

And though South African lore sees him as an old man who magically emerged from decades in prison to govern his country with great success, the reality is a bit more nuanced. Explains Chan: "The four years between his release and his election as president in 1994 were turbulent. He had to go on a steep learning curve."

And, while Mandela was in charge as president, he mainly provided the strategic direction and left the nitty-gritty of governing to his deputy, Thabo Mbeki. That's in no way negative, but the frail 76-year-old didn't single-handedly perform the arduous task of running the country.

Even after stepping down, Mandela remained an icon at home and around the world: almost uniquely among dissidents elected to political power, he left with his integrity and popularity intact. For South Africa, the African continent, even the world he was a desperately needed icon of democratic success.

"We're all praying for a peaceful transition now," says van Wyk. "We're on our knees 24-7."

But the adoration of Mandela will no doubt continue.

5 THINGS WE'LL REMEMBER ABOUT MANDELA
FROM ROYALTY, LEGAL ACTIVISM TO "TERRORISM"
Nelson Mandela, raised by an African royal family in the Eastern Cape region of South Africa, studied law at university and opened the country's first black law firm at the age of 34. His cost to fight apartheid led him to co-found an armed wing of the African National Congress, classified as a terrorist group at the time.
ROBBED OF LIBERTY, ON ROBBEN ISLAND
In 1964, Mandela was jailed for life for plotting to overthrow the government by sabotage. For 18 years of his sentence, he was interned at the infamous Robben Island prison in a tiny cell barely a few square metres in size. He was locked away, but not forgotten, as his power of resistance against apartheid spread from behind the bars to across the world.
MANDELA'S FREE AFTER MORE THAN A QUARTER OF A CENTURY
On February 11, 1990, clutching his wife Winnie's hand and dressed in a dignified brown suit, Mandela punches the air in a victory salute as he walks away from the gates of Victor Verster Prison. Mandela's freedom after 27 years in jail was one of the most iconic memories of the 20th century. Mandela was released following a relaxation of apartheid laws.
SOUTH AFRICA'S FIRST BLACK PRESIDENT ... AND OLDEST
In 1994, after more than 300 years of white rule, South Africa has its first black president after the country's first fully democratic election. At age 75, he became South Africa's oldest ever elected head of state.
BLACK AND WHITE UNITED, THROUGH SPORT
The following year, in another epic historic — and sporting — moment of the 20th century, Mandela presents the Rugby World Cup trophy to captain Francois Pienaar, an Afrikaner. Wearing a shirt of the South African rugby team (once reviled by the black population), Mandela's gesture was seen as a huge step of unity between blacks and whites.
1918-2013
visitor a year for 30 minutes was all Mandela was allowed to receive as a prisoner on Robben Island. He could write and receive one letter every half a year while interned there.
"If you want to make peace with your enemy, you have to work with your enemy. Then he becomes your partner."
Mandela on dealing with his opponents. He was lauded worldwide for working with those authorities that once persecuted him, rather than remaining embittered.
DID YOU KNOW?
MASKED. Throughout his life, Mandela was often photographed wearing traditional Madiba dress, one of the many symbols that helped him connect to his African roots.
MASTER OF DISGUISE. He escaped "the Rock" (Robben Island prison) with South African authorities because of his work in avoiding the police using disguises. (Fortunately, one was a fake beard.)
KEEN CLASSICAL MUSIC FAN. A violin and Wednesday were Mandela's favourite instrument and weekday, respectively. He loved classical music.
A TASTE FOR THE SIMPLE. Mandela's favourite dish was said to be mealie pap (white cornmeal porridge) with sour milk, cooked with vegetables and pepper — that's the spinach-and-cream-of-wheat version of oatmeal.
MANDELA THE "TERRORIST". For years, Mandela was charged on the United States' terror watch list due to his association with the African National Congress. Mandela was a founder of the ANC's armed wing, Umkhonto we Sizwe, and served a year in jail for attempting to leave the country illegally. He was not removed from the terror list ...

Synopsis

"Well, it's Christmas time, pretty baby" ... and the Reel Guys are watching films... With our apologies to Jerry Leiber and Mike Stoller, who wrote those lyrics to Elvis Presley's Santa Claus is Back in Town — that song pretty much sums up what the holiday season means for us. Next week we'll be back to reviewing the big releases of the year, but before we get to that we thought we'd have a look at movies to get us in the Christmas spirit. They may not all be on Santa's nice list.

Billy Bob Thornton's Bad Santa is an antidote to all that icky holiday cheer. CONTRIBUTED

Reel Guys

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Santa's back in town

Festive features. The Reel Guys share their favourite holiday films, but not all of them bring comfort and joy

Richard: James Stewart stars in one of the movies that always puts me in the mood for Christmas, but its not the one you think. Sure, It's A Wonderful Life is a classic and yuletastic, but I also enjoy The Shop Around The Corner. It's a Christmassy romance that sees shop co-workers Stewart and Margaret Sullivan at one another's throats at work, unaware that they are also anonymously courting one another as pen pals. All becomes clear on Christmas Eve and they unwrap a big ol' gift basket of love. It's almost as heartwarming as a giant mug of hot chocolate.

Mark: Richard, as I'm Jewish, the Christmas holiday doesn't have quite the emotional pull on me that it might have on you. So, come Christmas Eve our family gathers around the TV, where we watch Bad Santa until we fall asleep from convulsive laughter. The story of an alcoholic, womanizing, foulmouthed Santa is a delightful antidote to all that icky cheer I'm supposed to feel. Then, when the novelty dies down, I get with the program and watch Elf. But I wear my Grinch mask just in case a tear is shed.

RC: That green synthetic fur is great for soaking up tears! But an antidote to the icky cheer you describe are two films set during the holidays without an ounce of tinsel treacle between them. In The Long Kiss Goodnight an amnesiac played by Geena Davis is outed as a former hired killer when she is recognized playing Mrs. Claus in a Christmas parade. The title A Christmas Tale sounds traditional enough, but the story focuses on the bitter rather than the sweet. The English title of this Catherine Deneuve dramedy could easily have been Cancer for Christmas, but despite the downer topic it's complex, funny and touching.

MB: I've never seen A Christmas Tale, Richard, thanks for the tip. But if it's holiday downers we're looking for, consider Black Christmas, a 1974 slasher flick starring Olivia Hussey. I guess you could double-bill this one with the 2006 remake, but that might be, ahem, overkill.

RC: Many years ago, on the first Christmas the PMC — my Preferred Movie Companion — and I spent together, I screened Black Christmas for her, which almost stopped the relationship before it had a chance to really get going. I love the slaying slasher story. Her, not so much. I quickly rebounded with National Lampoon's Christmas Vacation, which made the yuletide bright once again. Thanks, Chevy Chase, for saving Christmas and my relationship!

MB: Well, for a Jewish guy like me, I'll just have to be content with Adam Sandler's Hanukkah animation classic, Eight Crazy Nights, and a glass of Manischewitz!

Women rule at Sundance 2014

Lineup look-ahead. Comedy giants try their hand at more serious roles

Bill Hader and Kristen Wiig take a turn for the serious at Sundance in The Skeleton Twins. CONTRIBUTED

Ladies will continue to drive the feature lineup at the Sundance Film Festival as Robert Redford's independent-cinema fair celebrates its 30th anniversary next month in Park City, Utah.

At the top of the list released Wednesday, female directors dominate the competition, with eight out of the 16 films helmed by women. And in front of the camera, women reign supreme — only this time, comedians eclipse the layout.

Actresses like Amy Poehler, Kristen Wiig, Molly Shannon, Aubrey Plaza, Amy Sedaris and Jenny Slate all appear in features playing at the upcoming fest. And in the case of Wiig, Shannon and Plaza, we have funny gals turning serious.

Following her dramatic turn in the upcoming The Secret Life of Walter Mitty, Wiig will play the twin sister of fellow SNL alum Bill Hader in The Skeleton Twins. In the film, which also stars Luke Wilson and Ty Burrell, the siblings coincidentally cheat death on the same day.

Shannon and Plaza will star in Life After Beth, which focuses on a mysterious second chance at love after death.

"Comedians are big this year, especially with what we are calling 'funny ladies,'" said Sundance director John Cooper. "A lot of these roles are setting up typical comedic actresses in roles that are a little deeper. In general, a lot of actors are being drawn to independent film because of the quality of interesting roles that they can play."

Sundance films typically offer the ideal fabric and draw for performers who are departing from their usual Hollywood formulas.

Girls sitcom creator Lena Dunham, whose debut movie, Tiny Furniture, won best narrative feature when it premiered at the South by Southwest film festival in 2010, will appear in writer/director Joe Swanberg's Happy Christmas, also starring Anna Kendrick.

In her first feature since The Twilight Saga: Breaking Dawn - Part 2, Kristen Stewart plays a guard stationed at Guantanamo Bay in budding writer/director Peter Sattler's Camp X-Ray.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

By the numbers

Altogether, 117 feature-length films, selected out of 12,218 titles submitted (72 more than for 2013), are scheduled for Sundance 2014. Some 37 countries and 54 first-time filmmakers will be represented.

Crime/Drama

Out of the Furnace

Director. Scott Cooper

Stars. Christian Bale, Casey Affleck

This movie is bleaker than the most mournful George Jones song. When steel mill worker Russell Baze (Christian Bale) emerges from jail, he finds his live-in girlfriend (Zoe Saldana) no longer lives in and his Iraq War vet brother Rodney (Casey Affleck) is having trouble with civilian life. When Rodney disappears after a bare-knuckle fight run by Harlan DeGroat (Woody Harrelson) Russell attempts vigilante justice. Bale and Affleck hand in intense performances but Harrelson shines as the best movie scuzzball in recent memory. It's a portrait of a hard life drawn in hard-edged detail, with no relief for the characters or audience.

All hail the chief (of staff)

The chief of staff to a top politician is not usually the one in the spotlight. Generally, they prefer to pull the levers of power anonymously from the corridors and meeting rooms while press secretaries face the media. But with the Senate scandal, Nigel Wright has become something of a household name. In Hollywood, chiefs of staff are also having a moment thanks to shows such as Scandal and Veep. Here's how Wright measures up against his fictionalized counterparts.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

Nigel Wright

Job: Chief of staff to Stephen Harper
Age: 50
Marital Status: Single
Background: Lawyer, then made millions as a Bay Street businessman.
Style: Calm, cool and collected. Described by friends as having high ethical standards despite current allegations of fraud, breach of trust and bribery for covering Sen. Mike Duffy's contested expenses.
General health: Marathon runner; gets up before dawn to exercise.
Quote: "My intention was always to secure repayment of funds owed to taxpayers. I acted within the scope of my duties and remain confident that my actions were lawful."

Cyrus Beene (Scandal)

Job: Chief of staff to U.S. President Fitzgerald Grant
Age: 50s
Marital Status: Married to White House reporter James Novak, with whom he has an adopted daughter.
Background: Campaign guru and political fixer. Once offered chance to run Harvard University.
Style: Ruthless, seemingly lacking in all scruples or limits. Helped rig an election; put a hit out on his own boyfriend; hired a hit man to kill a woman who had a fling with the president.
General health: Poor. Has been hospitalized for a heart attack.
Quote: "The nitty-gritty, morally bankrupt, back-alley-brawling rest of the game, that's me...."

Linda Vasquez (House of Cards)

Job: Chief of staff to U.S. President Garrett Walker
Age: Late 40s/early 50s
Marital Status: Unclear; has a college-age son, Ruben.
Background: A key player in Walker's campaign.
Style: "She's as tough as a two-dollar steak," as well as loyal and devoted to party ideals. But her weakness is Ruben.
General health: Trim, but you get the sense her chief exercise is marathon BlackBerry clicking.
Quote: "Now we have to lead. And that means making tough choices."

Eli Gold (The Good Wife)

Job: Chief of staff to Illinois Governor Peter Florrick
Age: Late 40s/early 50s
Marital Status: Divorced; has a daughter.
Background: Political consultant, concert pianist.
Style: Smooth, cunning, passionate. Investigated by the Department of Justice for vote buying. Deleted a critical voice mail sent to his boss' estranged wife by her love interest.
General health: Fit, but high-strung and emotionally repressed.
Quote: "I don't have many enemies in life — I get along with Republicans, Protestants, Catholics, even a few reporters. But the one thing I hate is amateurs."

Amy Brookheimer (Veep)

Job: Chief of staff to Vice-President Selina Meyer
Age: 30s
Marital Status: Single
Background: Capitol Hill staffer
Style: Generally even keeled, but with flashes of insecurity and frustration. Has mastered the art of managing a difficult, often irrational boss with a smile.
General health: Generally stressed out, poor sleeping habits, potty mouth.
Quote: "No, she cannot fall asleep on live TV. Not on C-Span. The irony would be too huge."

Leo McGarry (The West Wing)

Job: Chief of staff to President Josiah Bartlet
Age: 55 when he began the job
Marital Status: Divorced; has a daughter.
Background: Former air force pilot and labour secretary; made his millions in defence industry.
Style: Generally calm and loyal, not a yes man, won't suffer fools. Excellent reputation.
General health: Recovering alcoholic and barbiturates addict, workaholic. Died of massive heart attack (following the real-life death of actor John Spencer, who played McGarry).

Prepping for an old-school crime spree

Miniseries. The cast of Bonnie & Clyde immersed themselves in their stories and each other's company

PAT HEALY
Metro World News

Bonnie Parker and Clyde Barrow began a two-year crime spree in 1932 that could never happen in 2013.

Sure, the fame-hungry robbers would be all over the Internet, posting selfies of Bonnie holding a pistol and chomping on a cigar on Instagram, but even if they were able to draw millions of followers on Twitter and maintain the public's interest for that amount of time, they couldn't have dodged the cops for that long.

"You couldn't have it (happen) now because there would be an amber alert like 12 minutes later," says Lane Garrison, who plays Clyde's brother Buck on the two-night miniseries Bonnie & Clyde.

The concept of people being products of their times was very much present in the minds of the Bonnie & Clyde cast, which also includes Holliday Grangier and Emile Hirsch in the respective title roles, William Hurt as the Texas Ranger who hunts them down and Sarah Hyland (Haley from Modern Family!) as Buck's wife. Garrison says they all read Jeff Guinn's book Go Down Together: The True, Untold Story of Bonnie & Clyde before coming onto the set.

Pro at cons

Lane Garrison GETTY IMAGES

- Lane Garrison is probably best known for playing another outlaw, David "Tweener" Apolskis, on the show Prison Break. "Tweener, in my own opinion, was sort of one of those kids who just go caught up in the criminal justice system," he says, "and I feel like Buck definitely instigated the crime spree."

"This was a young man dealing in the middle of the Depression era and they didn't have anything," says Garrison, who grew up in Dallas, where the gangsters are originally from. "They had no money and Buck lacked an education, so of course he took to a life of crime. For me, stepping into that character, it was really about understanding what motivated him and that was family, first and foremost." To get that family feel, he and Hirsch also spent a good deal of time bro-ing out.

Holliday Grainger and Emile Hirsch star in Bonnie & Clyde, which airs Sunday, Dec. 8 and Monday, Dec. 9 at 9 p.m. on Lifetime and History. CONTRIBUTED

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

The Word

Paltrow's festive Kors collection too rich for most people's blood

TINA CHADHA
Metro World News

Last month,we found out that Gwyneth Paltrow and Michael Kors would create a special holiday collection for Goop, Paltrow's lifestyle site. Well, that day has come, people. The line — which consists of some of the Oscar-winner's favourite Kors pieces, but updated — debuts on the site Thursday and includes a high-end suede tote, an oversized gold watch, leather smoking slippers, a cashmere cape, a grey structured peplum sweater and a military-inspired wool coat. But like the clothes you imagine Gwynnie creating her organic meals in, these threads veer on the luxe side. The items range in price from $145 for a bracelet to $2,595 for the cosy cape. Something a bit more universal: Kors' grandmother's recipe for easy-to-make butter cookies.

Will Miranda complete Sex and the City trilogy

Cynthia Nixon ALL IMAGES GETTY

While Cynthia Nixon may have shot down the idea of a third Sex and the City film, co-star Kristin Davis is still holding out hope. "I'm going to have a little talk with Cynthia the next time I see her," Davis tells Haute Living magazine. "I don't think (a third film) is a pipe dream. There is a discussion. People talk about it amongst the people who are the players, but I don't know if it will come together. It would be very exciting if it did."

Tom Daley

Diving into love: Daley gushes about his boyfriend

Tom Daley is more than happy to gush about boyfriend Dustin Lance Black — though he doesn't mention him by name — now that he's opened up about dating a man. "We were at a party and I hadn't even spoken to him all night. I didn't know what to do or if he was gay at first," Daley tells Jonathan Ross during an interview. "I typed 'call me' in his notes with a smiley face on his phone and the next day he texted. He makes me feel safe and happy. Right now I couldn't be happier." And it seems things are pretty serious between the two. "I'd never felt the feeling of love. It happened so quickly," Daley added.

Amanda Bynes

Free woman Bynes 'feeling better every day'

Amanda Bynes is a free woman once more. The troubled actress has completed her in-patient treatment and is at her family's home for the holidays, according to People magazine. "She's feeling better every day," her mother's attorney, Tamar Arminak, tells the magazine. "Despite the fact Amanda is no longer in a facility, her outpatient treatment is continuing. She's very happy to reestablish the loving relationship with her family that she once shared." Bynes' next court date is set for Jan. 7.

Britney Spears

Hey critics! Don't you dare burst Britney's bubble

The reviews for Britney Spears' new album, Britney Jean, have been pretty terrible — but Spears herself has no idea. "Britney's manager, Larry Rudolph, and her father, Jamie, won't allow her to see any of the bad reviews," a source tells Radar Online. "Britney doesn't even have access to the Internet and lives in a bubble. Her team will allow her to believe that the album is being well-received. No one wants to upset Britney. If she were to read anything negative, it could send her into a bad tailspin, and both Larry and Jamie know that can't happen with her upcoming shows in Vegas about to launch."

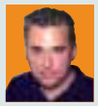
Liquid Assets

Liqueur in the spotlight



LIQUID ASSETS
Peter Rockwell
@therealwineguy
liquidassets@eastlink.ca

The term liqueur covers a lot of ground — from decadent, cream-based combinations, all the way to secret blends of herbs and spices. Most have a life outside of the holiday season, but I bet that for the majority of you buying a bottle in December is your yearly liqueur fix.

There's something sad about that. The liqueur market has never been more vibrant, venturing into packaging and flavour innovation territory any other booze category would fear to tread.

Not that the old standbys are resting on their liquid laurels. Bailey's (the Irish king of Christmas drinking) has introduced new flavoured family members and even Grand Marnier has dipped its cap in the pool of fruity expression, creating a special series of alternative versions.

Never to be outdone, Mexico's Kahlúa Limited Edition Gingerbread Liqueur (375 ml, $15.49 - $16.99) starts with the classic mix of rum and Arabica coffee and then adds gingerbread, nutmeg, cinnamon and clove. It results in a seasonal treat that's great over ice or as fuel in your favourite cup of joe. PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS THE COUNTRY. SOME PRODUCTS MAY NOT BE AVAILABLE IN ALL PROVINCES.

Gingerbread graduates to a grown-up torte

Almond-Chocolate Gingerbread Torte. This decadent treat features the quintessential holiday flavour with chocolate and almonds

This recipe serves 12. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ingredients

Chocolate Ganache Glaze
- 90 ml (6 tbsp) whipping cream
- 22 ml (1 1/2 tbsp) light corn syrup
- 250 ml (1 cup) semi-sweet chocolate chips

Cake
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) butter, softened
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) sugar
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) molasses
- 2 eggs
- 5 ml (1 tsp) vanilla
- 300 ml (1 1/4 cups) all-purpose flour
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) unsweetened cocoa powder
- 10 ml (2 tsp) ground ginger
- 7 ml (1 1/2 tsp) cinnamon
- 5 ml (1 tsp) baking powder
- 2 ml (1/2 tsp) allspice
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) buttermilk
- 150 ml (2/3 cup) toasted slivered almonds, divided
- Chocolate Ganache Glaze
- 75 to 125 ml (1/3 to 1/2 cup) apricot or peach preserves

1. Heat oven to 180 C (350 F). Coat two 23-cm (9-inch) round layer cake pans with vegetable spray.

2. In a mixer bowl, beat butter until fluffy. Beat in sugar, then molasses to blend thoroughly. Beat in eggs, one at a time. Beat in vanilla.

3. In another bowl, sift dry ingredients together. Beat into butter mixture just to blend. Mix in buttermilk. Coarsely chop 75 ml (1/3 cup) of the almonds; mix into batter. Pour into prepared pans, dividing equally and smoothing tops. Bake in centre of oven for about 15 minutes, just until springy to the touch. Let cool in pans on racks for 5 minutes, then turn out onto racks to cool completely.

4. Meanwhile, prepare glaze. In a small saucepan over medium heat, bring whipping cream and corn syrup to a boil. Remove from heat and mix in chocolate chips until smooth. Let cool until mixture is thick enough to spread on cake. Set aside.

5. Place one cake layer on a serving plate; cover with preserves and drizzle with glaze. Top with remaining cake layer. Spread glaze evenly over top and sides of torte. Garnish with remaining almonds. Let glaze set for at least 1 hour before serving. THE CANADIAN PRESS/ ALMOND BOARD OF CALIFORNIA

Etiquette

The cardinal rules of re-gifting

CHARLES THE BUTLER
askcharlesthebutler@metronews.ca
For more, visit charlesmacpherson.com

To re-gift, or not to re-gift? We all know that there's been a long-standing debate on the topic — and that at best, it leaves everyone agreeing to disagree. So let's put an end to the debate once and for all.

I'm here to tell you that, yes, re-gifting is acceptable. You read that correctly: Charles the Butler says it's alright to re-gift. Having said that, there's a rule or two involved that we need to understand, so let's go over them.

• Re-gifting is only acceptable if you have never used the item. This means if it is a puzzle, you cannot have tried putting it together; if it is a sweater, you cannot have worn it a few times; if it's a DVD, you cannot have watched it; if it's a computer game, you cannot have tried it out for a couple of weeks. The item must be unused and in its original package.

• You must give the item to a person who you think will really like it. Giving something you don't want just to get it out of your house means it's is not a sincere gift. You must believe in your heart that the person will honestly enjoy receiving the item in question as a present.

When you give the gift, ensure you make an effort to wrap it properly, and don't announce to the room that it's a re-gift, because that will surely make the other person uncomfortable. Finally, if you're uncomfortable re-gifting despite all of the above, then don't — donate the item in its original packaging to a charity or worthy cause. Someone will be happy to find it.

Pick a Christmas tree that makes the cut

Choices. Firs have taken over from pine trees when it comes to real trees in the home

Real Christmas trees can help enhance the holiday experience. PRESSMASTER/SHUTTERSTOCK

MICHELLE WILLIAMS
For Metro

All Christmas trees are beautiful — even Charlie Brown's scrawny little twig was a winner once it was all jacked up with decorations.

But if you are a bit fussier, here is a list of some of the most popular trees with the help of Arthur Loewen, president of the Canadian Christmas Tree Growers Association.

At one time, the pine tree was the No. 1 holiday tree, but this wide, heavy, long-needled tree has been replaced in popularity by the fir, a lighter, thinner, short-needled tree grown in many varieties across the country.

Native to Canada's East Coast, the Balsam fir is a nice-looking, hardy tree that sells for a relatively good price.

"It keeps moderately well, has rigid stems that don't sag when you hang decorations, and it has a thin trunk, which makes it easier to handle and put into a stand," Loewen said.

Gaining in popularity is the Fraser fir, also found primarily in Eastern Canada, but also in the west. It's pricier for a few reasons.

"It's the best needle keeper when you bring it inside," Loewen said. "It's lightweight, narrow, has the most rigid branches, and tends to last longer than the Balsam.

But the big reason for the extra cost is that there is more work in raising a Fraser fir to harvest. They take longer to grow than other firs, they grow best in dry areas and are more prone to disease and insects.

In the West, the Douglas fir tops the list.

"It matures quickly, so it's not as expensive to grow," Loewen said.

However, it doesn't last as long and the branches do sag a bit more than the more expensive Noble fir, also native to the West.

"The Noble fir is much like the Fraser, except it has a bluish colour," Loewen said.

Priced like the Fraser, this "king of the Christmas trees" grows slowly but does well as a holiday tree.

Christmas Tree Day

The Canadian Christmas Tree Growers Association has declared Dec. 7 as National Christmas Tree Day. The following are some facts and figures from the Canadian Christmas Tree Growers Association:

- The total value of the Christmas tree exportations (wholesale value) in 2011 was $1.7 million.
- Canada harvests approximately 2.5 millions trees annually
- More than 34,600 hectares (76,700 acres) were used for growing Christmas trees in Canada in 2011.
- There were 2,381 Christmas tree plantations in Canada in 2001.
- Each hectare produces enough oxygen for 40 people.

Guidelines. Shedding light on tree safety

JANE DOUCET
For Metro

Many Canadians look forward to the annual ritual of trimming the Christmas tree with favourite decorations and strings of lights. In order to enjoy your beautifully appointed tree safely, follow these guidelines from the Canada Safety Council:

- Get a freshly cut tree, which will stay green longer and be less of a fire hazard. Try to pick one with a strong green colour and noticeable fragrance.
- Always test for freshness before buying; a tree with a high moisture content is safer. Very few needles should fall when the butt of the tree is tapped on the ground. Needles should bend, not break, and the stump should be sticky with resin.
- Place the tree in a stand that will hold two to three litres of water and top it up daily. Make sure it's always immersed in water. If water drops below the trunk the stem may reseal itself, requiring a fresh cut. Use a stand that has widespread legs for stable balance.
- Don't set your tree up near a heat source such as a radiator, fireplace, heating duct, television or sunny window. It also shouldn't block doors or windows.
- Choose decorations that are flame-retardant, non-combustible and non-conductive. Don't hang metallic ornaments — if they make contact with defective wiring, they could become a shock hazard.
- If there are young children or pets in your home, avoid hanging small decorations, which could cause choking if swallowed.
- Never put lighted candles on the tree.
- Use light strings and sets that have been certified by the Canadian Standards Association (CSA).

Homan secures spot in semis at Olympic trials

Rachel Homan calls out directions to her rink on Thursday at MTS Centre.
JOHN WOODS/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Curling. Defending Canadian champion gets to sit and wait for her next opponent

Rachel Homan didn't care how she got a spot on the Canadian Olympic curling trials semifinal, it just mattered that her rink got one.

The defending Canadian champion from Ottawa defeated Stefanie Lawton of Saskatoon 6-5 in the final game of the seven-game round robin to finish 4-3, the same record as Winnipeg's Chelsea Carey and Ontario's Sherry Middaugh.

Homan got bumped to the semi, though, because her Ottawa rink fared better than Carey and Middaugh's teams on rankings based on draws to the button before games throughout the week.

"It wasn't important," Homan said of avoiding a tie-breaker at Winnipeg's MTS Centre. "It's nice to be able to get second place and go into the semi. Either way we had a chance and that's all we needed."

Carey and Middaugh will play their tie-breaker Friday with the winner taking on Homan in the evening. Winnipeg veteran skip Jennifer Jones already earned a bye into Saturday night's final.

Also Thursday, the federal government approved funding of more than $2.5 million for the Canadian Curling Association in 2013-14.

CCA chief executive officer Greg Stremlaw said the government's investment through Sport Canada is similar to the previous year's funding. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Awaiting the competition

"We've played them both a million times, and it's going to be a good game either way, and, hopefully, we can win it in 10 (ends)."

Ottawa's Rachel Homan, on whether she would prefer to play Chelsea Carey or Sherry Middaugh in the semifinal of the Canadian Olympic curling trials.

Getzlaf, LaBatte, Picard, Bagg sign on to stay in Saskatchewan

Regina's Chris Getzlaf
GETTY IMAGES

Receivers Chris Getzlaf and Rob Bagg and offensive linemen Brendon LaBatte and Dominic Picard all signed contract extensions to remain with the Grey Cup-champion Saskatchewan Roughriders.

Getzlaf, Bagg and Picard are under contract to the CFL club through the 2015 season while LaBatte's deal covers the 2016 campaign.

Getzlaf, 30, a Regina native, has played his entire seven-year CFL career with the Riders. Getzlaf had 63 catches for 1,045 yards and seven TDs during the regular season before adding three receptions for 78 yards in being named the top Canadian in Saskatchewan's 45-23 Grey Cup win over Hamilton.

Bagg, 28, of Kingston, Ont., completed his sixth season with Saskatchewan, registering 34 catches for 430 yards and four TDs. Bagg enters the 2014 campaign with 168 career receptions for 2,365 yards and 12 touchdowns.

LaBatte, of Weyburn, Sask., was the CFL's top lineman this year as well as a league all-star. The former University of Regina star was selected in the first round, sixth overall, by Winnipeg in the 2008 CFL draft.

Picard, 31, of Ste-Foy, Que., joined the Riders as a free agent following the 2012 season. He started all 18 regular-season games and the club's three post-season contests.

♉ Taurus
April 21 - May 21
Too often you have held back while those with considerably less talent have achieved the kind of success that should have been yours. Shed your inhibitions and let the world see what a star you are.

♊ Gemini

You may be under pressure to apologize for something you said to a friend or colleague but is that wise? Not if you truly meant it. Besides, why give them the impression that you can be easily swayed?

♋ Cancer
June 22 - July 23
You may be behind in your schedule but don't worry about it. If anything, you should be aiming to conserve your energy now — if only because by the early part of next week you will be working harder than ever.

♌ Leo
July 24 - Aug. 23
There are only so many hours in a day, so identify your priorities and don't try to do everything at once. Aim for quality rather than quantity in all things at all times. One way or another, it will be enough.

♍ Virgo
Aug. 24 - Sept. 23
You have reason to be annoyed with someone but because you are an agreeable individual, you may allow them to wriggle out of it by saying the right words. That'd be a mistake.

♎ Libra
Sept. 24 - Oct. 23
It's not like you to look back and wish things had been different but that may be your attitude today. OK, so you could have done a lot of things differently and some things better but that's life.

♏ Scorpio

♑ Capricorn
Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
Close your ears to criticism and don't waste time trying to get even with those who have let you down or said hurtful things. Time is too precious to waste on petty people .

♒ Aquarius
Jan. 21 - Feb. 19
There is no point complaining about a certain person's behaviour when what they are doing now is what they did yesterday and the day before that. It's in their nature, so either accept it or move away from their influence.

♓ Pisces
Feb. 20 - March 20
You need more fun in your life but you won't get it doing the same old things with the same old people. The planets are urging you to be more adventurous. SALLY BROMPTON
